FOR A CORRECT INSTALLATION OF THE VIBRATING SCREEN:

Don't place any antivibrating under the cylindrical base of support. Attach directly to the floor the base of the vibrating screen, after having verified the level. Remember that the inspection hatch on the base, must be easily accessible, to allow the regulation of the eccentric mass of the motorvibrator.

Don't apply extensions to the discharge outlets of the vibrating screen.

The vibrating screen doesn't have to touch anything around, leaves at least 200 mm of space.

Position your power system at the centre of the screen of vibrating screen, at a distance of about 100mm; use a diffuser/power pack 'Emilos' to cushion the fall of the product and distributes uniformly.

In the reassembly phase, make sure that the screen holding frame is perfectly centered; close strongly the locking ring that tightens the base disk with the screen holding frame and the band of product containment.

For a correct functioning, the product from the centre of the screen must be directed towards the outside, doing a clockwise rotation; if this doesn't happen, reverse one phase.

The motorvibrator installed on this vibrating screen, must be protected by thermal magnetic device (see potency and absorption indicated on the motor nameplate). Has been studied specially to work continuously 24 hours/day; we advise against the repeated turning off/turning on, to avoid electrical and mechanical damage.

Don't make any kind of change to the vibrating screen, it would compromise the structural resistance. Any modifications applied to the machine will cancel immediately the guarantee.

Consult the instruction manual that was delivered with the vibrating screen; you will find other information not less important!

Don't hesitate to contact us if you have any questions!
